

'Miraculous memoir . . . profoundly moving'
Observer

Evocative, raw and lyrical, this startling debut explores the natural world through Dara McNulty's eyes, an autistic teenager coping with the uprooting of home, school, and his mental health, while pursuing his life as a conservationist and environmental activist.

Shifting from intense darkness to light, recalling his sensory encounters in the wild – with blackbirds, whooper swans, red kites, hen harriers, frogs, dandelions, Irish hares and more – McNulty reveals worlds we have neglected to see, in a stunning work of nature-writing that is a future classic.

'This is writing at its wild and unruly best . . . sentences race, roar, and overflow with joy'
Rachel Clarke
